To Whom It May Concern,

Re: Character Reference for Minh Nguyen Viet Quang

My name is Seni Hazzan. I am a Finance Professor at Hult International Business School at Cambridge, State of Massachusetts, United States of America.

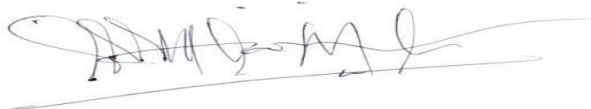

I write to attest to Minh Nguyen Viet Quang (“Minh”) character and skills as he pursues career opportunities in corporate finance, alternative investments, and portfolio management. As a former investment banking executive and now a university educator, I can confidently state that Minh possesses the academic and personal preparation, team spirit, intelligence, creativity, curiosity, talent, analytical skills, and potentials that make him an excellent fit for a successful career in the finance field. He will be a great addition to any organization or team by bringing his unique perspective to the work dynamics and professional environment.

I have known Minh since the Spring of 2021 and 2022 academic session, when he was a student in my Asset Valuation, Mergers & Acquisitions, and International Business Finance courses. I consider him to be an academically and intellectually outstanding student: his performance put him among the best in the class. His contribution on every assignment and project was excellent, with outstanding analytical and communication skills; and a demonstrated long-term commitment to finance. His team developed projects in the courses that became models for all due to his personal contributions.

In addition, he is an extremely hard-working student who never rested on his laurels. He is a disciplined manager of work and life affairs with entrepreneurial traits. He exhibits good judgement in decision making. He is highly resourceful and curious with respect to emerging technologies. His independent investment ventures demonstrated his readiness for the industry.

Therefore, I recommend Minh without reservation for any career opportunity you are considering him for. I will be delighted to discuss him further if you have any additional questions. Please feel free to contact me at seni.hazzan@faculty.hult.edu or +13028976831.

Very best regards,
